Wednesday.

Dearest Joe: —

The weather is most wonderful to-day, and I wish you were here to enjoy it. Everything is budding and becoming green - and it really makes you happy. How is the weather down Tenn. - it must be real hot now.

The nurses of Bellevue are going to parade along 5th Ave this afternoon to show their patriotic and enthusiastic spirit. The but — my eyes go with a green eye shade; do you want them?

Barney is coming home from Georgia within a few weeks to spend his summer vacation here. It hardly seems a year has passed since we were so anxiously waiting for his boat to come in. Time surely does fly. He is going to inquire if he can take up a year here together with another course in a certain branch of dentistry and so remain here for good. He is nurses home, from where they will start, is opposite the dispensary. So if I am not busy I may see them. They could not have a more ideal day to parade in, than to-day — and I am most sorry that I am not a nurse for I should love to be out this afternoon — even at the expense of parading.

You tell me how you have been feeling — and your eyes? Better, I hope: I think besides my nose and heart, I should have to send you my eyes — a little discouraged as this has been a dreadfully hard year for him.

Has anything new or definite turned up in our big case? And did my big scaly sweetheart have a hard time beating the creditors? How are your other cases getting along?

Here's a big kiss and a big hug from

Your everloving
Frances.

Perhaps when you answer this letter you will know if you are coming home soon.
